ICT Representative Services

Progress in Information and Communication Technology (ICT) has enabled business operations to be done virtually anywhere in the world. Many American and European companies have extended their customer outreach by utilizing the wealth of growing back office operation centers within the Asia-Pacific region. For companies who are looking for a similar option, the Philippines is a good place to consider.

EnVision helps its customers answer fundamental questions in evaluating local market potentials. By analyzing the target market, their needs, the products that would appeal to them and the price at which they are willing to buy, EnVision is able to present its clients with a bird's eye view of the best business strategies and how to implement them.

EnVision evaluates and recommends potential resellers, distributors, sales channels, systems integrators and other suppliers. It also conducts sales and technical training, monitors every channel's performance, and provides a direct touch to key customers. It even conducts a proof of concept to customers when needed.

Foreign companies rely on EnVision's expertise in penetrating the Asia-Pacific market by becoming a competitive player – all sans the burden of high costs and long learning curve.

Project Assurance Services

A growing number of Contact Centers and Business Process Outsourcing (BPO) firms have already set up in the Philippines, with numbers steadily growing. This meant moving their company's critical business operations components in the country.

For these companies, the decision to set up shop in the Philippines was initially a risky move. Their first and foremost step is to get a partner to help them do things right from the very beginning, assist them in making the right investments, and enable them to have their operations up-and-running-on schedule, within budget and with world-class quality.

Working with various suppliers, service providers and contractors is always a daunting task for any company. EnVision takes care of all these, breaking down the confusion early on by evaluating available solutions and picking the best options.

EnVision is there from Day One — from planning, preparation of the feasibility studies, site selection and inspection, negotiation with land lords, managing construction of the physical facility, help build the technical infrastructure, down to the selection of the right telecommunication service providers.

EnVision is also there to help draw up the human resource requirements and recommends the appropriate recruitment mode and recruitment partners.

Landlord Representative Services

Over the years, EnVision has grown due to its strong relationships with locators, brokers, building associations, government institutions and businessmen. The company's very favorable reputation with both landlords and locators has resulted in customer loyalty and numerous business opportunities.

EnVision has developed a service wherein it acts as liaison between foreign companies and building owners, helping both sides understand the nuances of ICT operations.

For foreign companies, this service means zero-headache and guaranteed results. EnVision hunts for the best location, tailor-fit it to the client's needs, and does so by preparing a feasibility study complete with estimates of capital, operating expenses, and ocular reports of the actual site.

For building owners, this service means more business at minimal costs.

EnVision actively markets the building space or site to potential BPO/Call Center locators in the Philippines and abroad, dealing with local and foreign brokers. EnVision takes care of the preparation of proposal, offer letters to prospective locators, meetings and presentations, ocular inspections, negotiations and contracts.
